James M. Golubieski Co-Moderates International Panel

President of Foundation Venture Capital Group James M. Golubieski recently returned from England where he co-moderated a panel discussion at the Global University Venturing Summit in London.

Mr. Golubieski and Mike Johnson, divisional director of corporate partnerships at MRC Technology in London, discussed healthcare sector opportunities as universities face increasing pressure to show successes in their research, education and local economic impact. The Summit examined the creation and launch of venture funds, connections to corporate partners and others in the venture and entrepreneurial ecosystem and presented best practices from around the world.
